quent to the events which led to the capture of that port and the fire which caused the destruction of property valued at $60,000,000. The Government troops took up a position some distance from town and the rebels returned on board, leaving only fifteen men in charge of the town. The troops soon heard of this and marched on the place, 700 strong, under Colonel Soto. Firing commenced and a shore fusillade led the ships to promptly open fire, The GRAND JURY WORK AT THE CRES-Esmeralda and Husscar used heavy guns, while the transports kept mitrailleuses busily employed. Tremendous destruction followed and the flames spread until the whole central part of Iquique, where the best stores and buildings were situated, was in ruins. Up to the twenty-sixth, when the Warspite left Iquique, the town was yet burning. The fight which resulted in the fire was a stern and bloody tragedy and it would have been more prolonged had it not been for an arrangement reached by the chiefs of the two parties, and under which the opposition leaders engaged to pay Colonel Soto $10,000 to deliver among his men, who were then to join the rebels. The Government troops then abandoned arms and soon dispersed. Subsequently Soto was ar-rested and sent on board the Amazon, accused of having distributed only $1000 among the men and having retained the remainder. Those on board the Warspite were also informed that Colonel Robles had 2000 of Balmaceda's troops on the pam-pas and it was possible they could again attack Iquique, in which port and its vicinity revolutionists stated they had 3000 men. They were, however, short of ammunition, but were expecting

The report has reached Panama that when the forces of Valparaiso fired on the Blanco Encalda, killing several of her crew. The commanding officer solicited permission from the shore authorities to bury them, and the answer he received was that he might bury them in the sea. The commander of the Blanco Encalda referred to the captain of the British ship Champion and the latter significantly replied, "Request me to bury them and I shall do so." The request was accordingly formally made, whereupon the British com mander had the Chilian seamen taken ashore under the protection of the British flag and buried with due military honors in graves he had ordered prepared for them.

Washington, March 24 .- It is the purpose of the Navy Department to have Admiral Brown, in command of the Pacific station, transfer his flag from the Charleston to the more suitable cruiser San Francisco, and to dispatch that vessel to Chili at the earliest possible day.

Both vessels are now at Mare Island Cal., and the San Francisco, it is expected, will be ready to sail within two weeks. If there should be need of another vessel in Chilian waters, the Charleston will follow the San Francisco

At the same time, they certified checks that had been deposited such items to stand. "No one thing alls the bank," added Hepburn, "but every-thing. Inadequate security for loans, loans to parties of notorious impecuni-osity and an utter disregard for estab-lished banking principles characterized its management."

THE NEWFOUNDLANDERS.

Attention Paid Them in the House of Commons Yesterday.

LONDON, March 24.-In the Commons today Smith, the Government leader, repudiated any desire on the part of the Government to coerce the people of Newfoundland. A most inflammatory document had been circulated on the likely to seriously imperil the peace. The Imperial Government was compelled, much against its will, to insure the performance of treaty obligations by the local legislature. He hoped good counsel would prevail and the colony by the office would take steps to obviate the necessity of action on the part of the Imperial Government.
